MORTALITY IN NEW YORK SLUMS. All the Fast Many Tenement Houses Condemned RACERS From the Arena. In the houses built for purely tenement purposes the depth of the house is increased until it occupies from 86 to 90 per cent of the lot, and, by splitting the rooms down the middle, each floor is made to accommodate four families. Then the house is run up to five stories in height, and gives shelter, though not much else, within its walls to twenty families, including frequently 100 people, sometimes increased by fifty or more boarders and iodgers. For example, in a house in Crosby street there were found 101 adults and ninety-one children; and in two houses on Mulberry street 150 boarders were found sleeping on the floors. When a single house is thus made to contain the population of a good-sized village it may well be said that there are less square feet of the earth's surface allotted to each man, woman and child in some wards of New York city than are allowed for them in the most crowded country graveyard. New York, at least, denies the truth of Bryant's striking lines that "All who treads the trible of the striking lines that "All who treads the trible of the striking lines that "All who treads the striking lines that the striking lines the striking lines that the striking lines the striking lines the striking lines the striking li at least, denies the truth of Bryant's striking lines, that "All who tread the earth are but a handful to the tribes that slumber in its bosom."

Not only have the old Knickerbocker mansions been changed into "double-deckers," but their former gardens, also, have been made to grow such fruit as gardens never grew before. It is here that the rear tenement has sprung up and brought it to pass that 93 per cent of the lots is often built upon, instead of the 70 per cent which the law nominally prescribes. Surwhich the law nominally prescribes. Sur-rounded on all sides as these tenements rounded on all sides as these tenements are by higher buildings, and cut off from air and light to such an extent that the tenants of the lower floors must resort to the use of oil or candle at midday beneath a cloudless sky, it is no wonder that, like Saul, they have killed their thousands. In one ward of New York, while the death rate of single houses has twenty-nine to the thousand, the presence of the rear tenements brought it up to sixty-two; and in twenty-four wards, where the average death rate for houses standing singly on the lot was twenty-two, the average for front and rear houses was twenty-eight. To infants in particular the rear tenements have proved terribly fatal. While ments have proved terribly fatal. While the death rate of children under five years of age in single tenements in one ward was 110, their death rate in front and rear tenements was 205; in twelve wards, where their average death rate in single tene-ments was 90, in front and rear it was 104. If it were possible to make a com-parison between single tenements and rear enements alone, these startling figures would be still larger.

Death's warning finger has at last been heeded, and during the summer of 1896 the health department condemned eightythe health department condemned eighty-four of these human slaughter houses. This salutary action was largely due to the efforts of Mr. Gilder's committee, who carefully investigated the condemned houses and showed that the result of insanitary conditions was a death rate in these tenements during the past five years of from 22.02 to 75.05 in the thousand, while the city's death rate was less than

HOW THE SPERM WHALE FIGHTS A Tremendous Conflict Between the

Monsters of the Deep. Two "killers" and a huge swordfish

(Xiphias), desperate with hunger, had combined their forces and ventured to attack a half-grown bull cachalot. Nothing, I am persuaded, but the direct necessity and pressure of want could have prompted them to undertake so grave a conflict, although it must needs be confessed that their combination was a powerful one It fell to the swordfish to lead off, and he launched himself at the whale like a Whitehead torpedo, pointed direct for the most vital part. But a gentle swerve of the wary cachalot presented to the attack, instead of the vulnerable broadside, the oblique, impenetrable mass of his head. The awful blow of the sword impelled by the furious speed of the mass behind it struck just before the whale's eye, ripping a white streak diagonally upward through the grisly substance covering the skull, but spending its force in the air above, while the great body following glided serpentlike right over the whale's head and fell helplessly upon the other side.

With incredible agility for so vast a bulk, the cachelot turned settling stightly.

bulk, the cachalot turned, settling slightly withal, then rising, lower jaw uppermost, he car ght the xiphias fairly in the center between those mighty shears and cleft him in two halves. A sideway shake of the great head a season was the statement of the streat head a season was the same of the streat head. between those mighty shears and cleft him in two halves. A sideway shake of the great head, a scarce perceptible gulp and the tail half of the swordish slid down the whale's cavernous throat with as much ease and rapidity as if it had been an oyster. Meanwhile the oreas had not been remiss in supporting the spirited attack of their ill-fated coadjutor. One hung upon either flank of their giant foe and worried him as dogs a boar. But their time had come. After vainly endeavoring by rolling and writhing to free himself from them he suddenly, changed his factics. Rearing himself majestically out of the seething eddles like a mighty column of black rock, he fell backward tearing himself away from the clinging monsters. Up rose his enormous tail from the boiling vortex and descending like a giant scythe literally crushed one of his aggressors beneath k, the sound of the blow reverberating like thunder. The survivor fled, but the infuriated Titan pursued, leaping like a dolphin, half out of the sea at every bound, and although we could not see the end of the chase we had little doubt but that otca gladuator paid the full penalty of his rashness under the lethal sweep of those terrible jaws.

Thought He Lost His Eye.

CURRENT NOTES ON SPORT

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 10.-By mutus nt between attorneys the cases against the players of the Cleveland and Wash ington teams, who were arrested early this season for violating the Sunday law, have cision of Judge Ong, declaring the Sunday law unconstitutional, was the cause for the postponement of the cases against the other players. It is made to allow the state time to carry the case against Powell up to the circuit court. Chief of Police Connor stated this morning that he did not know what course he would take in the matter of arresting the players tomorrow at the game with Washington.

A conference of police officials will be held to decide upon a method of procedure some time this afternoon. The police prose cutor announces that exception will be filed to the ruling of Judge Ong and a petition in error filed in the circuit court at the Clevelands today Jand reports from the lake city also indicate that a game will be pulled off there tomorrow. Judge Ong of the court of common pleas handed down a decision yesterday that permits Sunday ball playing in Cleveland. The opponents of Sunday ball admit that it is almost impossible for them to stop the game, as the circuit court is not in session, to which an injunction application would have been made. The base ball enthusiasts are in high feather over the victory, and a crowd that will pack the park to overflowing will most likely be pin hand tomorrow to see the Senators and Spiders battle for su-

RECORD OF A QUARTER CENTURY

Institutions That Were Once Leaders in Rowing.

A DISCARDED SPORT

1871, when crews from Brown, Harvard lege rowed a three-mile race in sixes on the Connecticut river at Springfield, Mass. In 1874 the race was transferred to Saratoga lake, and rowed there for three years. It was a popular contest, and thirteen lake. This was the golden age of college rowing. The withdrawal of the Yale and Harvard crews gave the death blow to the establishment of annual intercollegiate rac-

After a short interval racing was resumed on a smaller scale. Rowing in fours became popular. Mr. George W. Childs offered a cup for an annual race on the Schuylkill at Philadelphia. Columbia developed a fast four, which was sent to the Henley regatta in England in 1878, and won the cup for college fours. Two years later Cornell defeated Columbia, and as the representative of American college oarsmen Cornell four went to England in 1881 and were defeated at Henley. In 1884 Harvard and Columbia began a series of races in eights, and two years later Yale and the University of Pennsylvania also met in eights. Yale and Harvard had raced in eights over a four-mile course since 1876. In 1889 Cornell began to row in eights at New London, alopding a thresmile course. In '33 the distance was changed to four miles, and this is the distance now rowed by the college eights. The full record of intercollegiate racing follows: 1871—At Springfield, 3 miles straightaway, in sixes, Massachusetts Agricultural, 16.46½; Harvard, Brown.

THE LOCAL CHESS TOURNEY

Notwithstanding the heated term, the tables at the Washington Chess Club are occupied every evening. A tournament is in progress, the second round having been played during the past week. Captain O'Farrell played off his postponed game with Mr. Crofts, winning it, and also won a game from Mr. Thomas. Harris won from Campbell, Finn won from Prender, Tibbetts from Tucker and Smith from Crofts. Ray and Elwell did not play, as Mr. Elwell has left for his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. He will probably not return to finish his games, in which case his game with Smith last week will not count. Mr. Eiwell is a strong player, and with one or Exwell is a strong player, and with one or two exceptions has come out ahead in his games with local players.

Harris and O'Farrell are tied for first place, and an interesting contest is looked for. The captain will make a hard fight to come out first on account of his cham-pionship ambitions.

The present standing of the players is as follows:

The women's chess tournament has come to a close. Miss Rudge of England won first prize, with the score of 17 won and 2 lost. Signorina Fagan, the Italian, took prize, with 14½ won and 4½ lost; lost. Signorina Fagan, the Italian, took second prize, with 14½ won and 4½ lost; Miss Thorold of England was third, with 14 won and 5 lost; Mrs. Worrall of America was fourth, with 13 won and 6 lost; Mme. Bonnefin of Belgium, fifth; and the sixth prize was divided between Mrs. Barry of Scotland and Lady Thomas, lady champion of England. of England. The match between Messrs. P. O'Farrell

The match between Messrs. P. O'Farrell and W. A. Gwyer, jr., has already come to a conclusion. Mr. Gwyer won the fifth game, making the score 3 to 2. Then Mr. O'Farrell won the next two games and the match by the score of 5 to 2. Captain O'Farrell is still desirous of meeting the winner of the Wright-Walker match for the championship of the District of Columbia. Mr. E. P. Hanna will also be a candidate for championship honors, so that the prospect is favorable for some interesting matches the coming winter.

He obtained a slight advantage in position early in the game, and won a pawn, owing to Mr. Wright's overlooking the reply to his fourteenth overlooking the reply to his fourteenth move. The pawn was recovered, however, on the eighteenth move. The play was unsound, but black did not have time to carefully study the position. Mr. Wright was beginning to assume the aggressive, when black's thirty-first move came as a surprise. To prevent a mate, it was necessary to sacrifice the queen. The present standing of the players is: Wright, 4: Walker, 1; drawn, 1. The score of the game is as fol-

Y. M. C. A. Cycle Club.

The Y. M. C. A. Cycle Club has been steadily progressing since its organisa-tion, about two weeks ago, several new members having been added to the roster at the last meeting. The last run to Cabin John Bridge was participated in by about ten members of the club, and was enjoyed by all except Mr. Teepe, who, or the way out, broke the bearings in the front wheel of his bicycle and was obliged to return.

The club meets every Monday evening. It has been decided that the regular run on Monday evening next will be to Cycle Cottage, the start to be made from the association building, 1409 New York avenue, at 7 o'clock sharp. At the last meeting it was also agreed that the emblem of the Y. M. C. A. should be the insignia of the club for the present.

been piaced in position than a car rounded the curve on Broad street and struck the first box. The effect was startling. There was a report like that of a heavily-charged shotgun, and the passengers all sprang to their feet. One after another in rapid succession the remaining boxes exploded as the wheels passed over them, sounding almost like a volley of artillery. At 13th street a nervous old laby alighted from the car, remarking that she thought she would walk the rest of the way.
